Accessible work area

When the saw process is activated the hold-down device is lowered and at the same time the front pneumatic protection shield is raised. After the saw cut, the hold-down device and the shield are unlocked only after the saw blade has been lowered. The loading of material is not hindered in anyway, allowing easy access for the operator to use and see what is happening while offering the highest safety level.

Safeball ergonomically designed control

Safeball is a completely new approach to the design of one and two-hand safety devices. Safeball consists of a spherical ball containing two embedded push button switches, one on each side of the ball. By using this push button configuration, the risk of unintentional activation is minimized and the device is simple and ergonomic to use.
