Virutex FR292R Tilt Trimmer-

Easier, more accurate trimming, with the special 90° bit

The machine body can be tilted to approximately 46.5°, so that the edge of the bit is at 1.5° to the surface, preventing damage when trimming excess edges. Once the excess coating has been trimmed from the board surface, just position the bit at the level of the base to trim the excess edge level with the surface. By simply operating a single adjustment control, you can trim a further excess surface or edge. By tilting the machine to the horizontal position, you can trim 45° chamfered edges. You can also chamfer to the angle you require between 0° and 45°, by tilting the motor body to the required intermediate angle.

Trimming of straight edges

The tiltable motor body permits the trimming of straight edges with the cylindrical bit as well as the excess surface. Excess panel is trimmed with the motor body in the vertical position, and edges with the motor body inclined to 91.5°, i.e. at 1.5° below the board surface, thereby avoiding damage.

Copier with ball bearing

Perfect guiding on straight or curved surfaces.
